

Tommy Fallow was born in D.C. and moved two times. He lives in Avon, CT now. He's 10 years old and loves video games, farming, and NERF battles.

Sunburns

by Tommy Fallow

In summer, the sun is bright

Providing heat, but also light

Plants photosynthesize

Mosquitoes drink blood

They incise

Harvesting, gardening

Tough face-hardening

Sunburns

When I close my eyes and feel the sting

Of an itch

On my neck

That turns me into a nervous wreck